The Benefits Of Bear Creek Hot Springs

A brochure found at the Bear Creek Hot Springs in Belknap.

THE BENEFITS OF HOT SPRINGS

Natural hot springs have long been held as therapeutic and healing by many cultures. According to folklore, just a soak in a hot spring can increase circulation, blood flow, and metabolism. While these, among many other purported healing properties, are widely debated, one thing is absolutely clear -- natural hot springs are great for you!

From the salty, healing waters of the Dead Sea to the famous Japanese hot springs, water's healing properties cannot be debated. But the benefits of natural hot springs are incalculable. Anyone who's exercised for a long period of time can tell you how relaxing a hot soak is, but with the natural minerals of the earth added into the mix, achy joints and pain begone. The buoyancy of water combined with hot temperatures can work wonders on the body, especially after a long day. And with the natural addition of sodium, calcium, and chloride to our pools, you'll leave with your skin feeling more youthful than ever.

So please, join us for a soak at the Bear Creek Hot Springs, and wash your troubles away.

Salome Hot Springs Guestbook

A guest log book found at the Salome Hot Springs in Belknap.

Turk Bryant. Seattle, WA. Beautiful. Totally recommend the salt baths. :)

Deryl Higgins. New York, NY. Wish I could've stayed longer.

Janet and John McDowell. Chemult, OR. Terrible service. Took forever to find my car, no morning service. Do NOT eat the ham & cheese sandwich.

Greg McIntyre. Farewell, OR. Amazing, amazing hospitality. Took my family in at the last minute. Trying to escape that weird flu going around. Wonderful daycare service as well. Five days. :)

Brooklyn Bing. Farewell, OR. With everything that's going on, the Salome Hot Springs staff have been incredible. They even let me bring up my dog! Couldn't be happier here.

Monica Green. Farewell, OR. My stay at the Salome Hot Springs has been terrible. Food running low from all the weird bullshit going on outside, no fresh towels in the morning. I booked this place six months in advance and they gave my room to some family! Do not recommend.

Rachel Lemon. Ripplebrook, OR. The staff here is so kind. I'm not feeling well and they even called an ambulance.

Bears? Where?!

Black Bear Awareness at Grizzly Falls Campground

Central Oregon is Black Bear country. For your personal safety:

1. DO NOT approach a bear if you see one. Stop, slowly back away, and leave. If the bear has spotted you, make yourself large and create a commotion. DO NOT RUN.
2. If a bear attacks you, fight back! Aim for the nose. It will eventually back off.
3. After spotting a bear, head back to your campsite immediately (if hiking). Do not proceed.
4. DO NOT bury your food or leave your food or garbage outside. Burn your food and dispose of your garbage in our bear-proof dumpsters. Lock your remaining food up in your car. Food attracts bears!
5. Tell a ranger where you saw the bear.
6. Keep your dogs leashed at all times.

Sherman's Camp Brochure

An informational brochure about Sherman's Camp, given to you by Addy in Lost Lake.

VISIT HISTORIC SHERMAN'S CAMP

The High Desert in the Civil War: The Collection of Sherman's Camp Local, Abram Stuart

The Sherman's Camp Visitor's Center has recently acquired a collection of artifacts from some of Central Oregon's soldiers and militia, donated from local resident, Abram Stuart. From camping equipment and saddles, to the book collection and Liston knife of wartime surgeon Lysander Bernard Hayes, this assemblage shows what wartime life was like for both the soldiers in the eastern theatre and the militia back home. Come to the Visitor's Center today and see a piece of Oregon's Civil War history!

Lysander Hayes and Civil War Surgery

Did you know, before the invention of modern medicine, surgical amputation was done by knife and without anesthetics? The Liston knife, developed by Robert Liston, was one such tool, allowing surgeons to amputate limbs quickly to reduce suffering in their patients. Liston knives like Hayes' were commonly used by Civil War surgeons.

Fishing on Jones Creek

Sherman's Camp is surrounded by two beautiful creeks -- Jones Creek and Spring Creek. Both are well-stocked with fish during the spring and summer seasons. Bring your fishing pole and tackle, and enjoy the clear mountain air for the perfect day trip! (See the Visitor's Center for 1-Day Angling Passes, rates may vary.)

Dining on Jones Creek

With creek-side dining and home-style cooking, Sherman's Camp boasts several amazing restaurants and eateries. Enjoy outdoor seating with a beautiful view of Jones Creek and the surrounding meadows and mountains. What could be more beautiful?

Local Craft Beer

With hops so easy to grow in the High Desert climate, microbreweries and craft beers are our specialty. Visit the Sherman's Camp General Store or any of the local restaurants to try selections of some of Central Oregon's local breweries.

Meet the Campfire Cadets

A brochure about the Campfire Cadets found at Camp Pioneer in Lost Lake.

THE CAMPFIRE CADETS

WHO WE ARE

The Campfire Cadets were formed on July 10, 1915. Our original creed was to "uphold patriotism, teach courage, and instill good values" into the youth of America. Since then, our influence has grown across the United States, becoming nationally recognized for our mentorship and community service.

THE CADET IDEOLOGY

The Campfire Cadets provide the youth of America with comradery, fellowship opportunities, and long-lasting friendship, in order to create responsible citizens, develop character, and breed self-reliance through participation in outdoor activities, community service, learning opportunities, and by providing hands-on leadership experiences.

THE CADET OATH

"On my honor as a Cadet, I will strive to uphold the Cadet Creed, to help those in need, to protect the weak, and to be the best that I can be."

THE CADET CREED

"A Cadet is loyal, helpful, friendly, kind, courageous, caring, responsible, respectful, brave, courteous, and strives to make the world a better place."

HOW TO DO THE FIRESIDE SALUTE

The Fireside Salute is the Campfire Cadets' official salute! To perform, hold your hand up, palm facing forward, and tuck your thumb in. Waggle your four fingers in front of your face to form a fire of your own! This salute symbolizes the crackling fire of the Campfire Cadets' logo, and the eternal flame of Campfire Cadet unity.

And remember, THE CAMPFIRE MOTTO: "Always Help Those in Need!"

Preserving the Beauty of Crater Lake Poster

PRESERVING THE BEAUTY OF CRATER LAKE

With its deep, blue waters, Crater Lake is an Oregon treasure, attracting millions of visitors to our state and national park a year. Multitudes of outdoor activities in the area such as hiking, photography, boating, kayaking, fishing, and camping bring people to this spot, allowing them to enjoy the wonder that is Crater Lake.

This wonderful park is also home to fauna like grizzly bears, peregrine falcons, spotted owls, black bears, bobcats, coyote, lynx, wolves, and even bald eagles. So its state as a nationally protected park is not only important to preserving its beauty, but also to the survival of some of the nation's most precious and endangered species.

However, pollution, littering, hunting, and logging threaten the peace of our beautiful lake. Logging companies seek to cut into these trees for their industry, and, while we love our tourists, not all of them take only pictures, nor leave only footprints. We must work together to preserve the beauty of Crater Lake, and to keep this national park protected and clean.

Do your part. Contact the National Forest Department today for volunteer opportunities and what you can do!

Klamath Marsh Wetlands Preservation Flyer

An informational poster about the Klamath Marsh Wetlands, found on Highway 97.

WHAT ARE WETLANDS?

Wetlands are typically defined as areas of land covered in water, that make up their own distinct ecosystems or biomes. Common types of wetlands are swamps, marshes, bogs, riverbanks, mangroves, floodplains, rice fields, and anywhere where water is a dominant mass that severely impacts the ecosystem.

WHY PRESERVATION IS IMPORTANT

Wetlands are important to the environment, and their preservation is key to the function of our beautiful Earth. Wetlands provide homes for local flora and fauna, reduce the impacts of storms and flooding, control pests, and stabilize the local climate. They are also important to local culture such as forestry and farming.

DOING YOUR PART

Please do your part to preserve this beautiful marsh. When hiking, stay on marked trails. Do not destroy the marsh, litter, or smoke. Together, we can protect this beautiful Earth!

A brochure about alpaca farming, found at Snowbrush Ranch in Iron Butte.

SNOWBRUSH RANCH ALPACA FARM - So You Want to Farm Alpacas

Visit the Snowbrush Ranch

Open Monday - Saturday, 10am - 2pm

WHY FARM ALPACAS?

Alpacas are considered to be one of the world's finest livestock, producing textiles from their fleece that are always in demand. They are charismatic companions, do well in small farms and homes, and provide income from fleece production and breeding.

More compact than their cousin, the llama, alpacas produce a higher quality fleece that can be used in clothing production. They're also popular show animals and are incredibly diverse, boasting a large variety of coat color.

As companions, alpacas are curious, loving, and easy to train, making them great pets and livestock for people of all ages and experience levels.

GETTING STARTED

When starting your own alpaca farm, there's much to consider. First, we recommend visiting your local alpaca farms for a firsthand look at your future. There, you'll be able to review the environments in which your local farms raise their alpacas, get advice, and get some experience.

Once you've made your decision, it's worth spending time with a business consultant to secure funding. Alpaca farming is a rewarding and wonderful lifestyle, but it takes considerable funding to get it off the ground, especially if you don't already own your own acreage or have a farm.

From there, you'll need to secure your lodgings. You'll need a small ranch of acreage, with a barn or shelter for your alpacas. This land will need to be able to support their needs, keep them warm in the winter, and give them adequate shelter during the evening.

If you're interested in alpaca ownership but can't afford the cost of owning and maintaining a ranch, you can also place your alpacas in the care of a breeder. For a monthly fee, breeders will handle the boarding and feeding of your alpaca, letting you focus on training and socialization. There are benefits to owning your own ranch, but by keeping your alpaca with a breeder, you can save considerable money on ranch maintenance. We highly recommend this option if you're looking to only own one or two alpacas. (Snowbrush Ranch is a certified alpaca breeding and boarding facility. Please contact us if interested.)

There are quite a few other things to consider when starting your alpaca farm, such as shelter, paddocks, pastures, access to electricity and veterinary care, livestock trailers and transportation, equipment, shearing supplies, feed storage and processing, and irrigation, among many others. Make sure to inquire with the Alpaca Owner Alliance or with your friends at Snowbrush Ranch for consultation and additional information.

We look forward to welcome you to the alpaca family soon!

SNOWBRUSH RANCH ALPACA RATES & PRICES

We at Snowbrush Ranch not only breed alpacas for their fleece, but also for their showmanship. All of our eligible alpacas are trained and shown around Oregon, and many of them are of award winning quality. We take breeding and training very seriously here and are committed to our animals.

Rates for purchasing Snowbrush alpacas are dependent on lineage, age, coat, and pedigree. Contact us for rates and prices.
